SUPREME COURT.

IN ORIGINAL JURISDICTION. BEFORE THE FULL COURT.

This case was heard rather over a week ag before a jury, when a verdict was given to the effect that the defendant, being entitled to make certain deductions from the plaintiffs' claim or account of the non-fulfilment by the plaintiffs of the contract between the parties for the col lection of a thousand emigrants to proceed to Jamaica, the sum paid into court was more than sufficient to cover the balance due to the plain fiffs. This verdict was taken subject to a point of law which was reserved as to whether a larger amount than $18,000 damages could be allowed the defendant for breach of contract, that being the penalty specified in the contract. The amount remaining in dispute was $2,298, and the case now came before the court on an ex parte motion for a rule calling on the defendant to show cause why a verdict should not be entered for the plaintiffs for this sum in addition to the amount paid into court. The Attorney-General (Hon. E. L. O'Malley), instructed by Messrs. Dennys and Mossop, appeared for the plaintiffs; Mr. Francis, who was instructed by Messrs, Brereton, Wotton, and Descon, was present, watching the case, but taking no part in the proceedings.

The Attorney-General rend the notice of mo tion, and said it was originally coupled with a statement of the grounds of the motion We are glad to hear that the Choral Society damages which the defendant was awarded. should ask for a rule nist.

The Chief Justice said the point that was re served was the construction of the clause in the agreement as to liquidated damages. That was the question which was set aside for argument, and that was what the plaintiffs were entitled to argue before the full court, no more. The only argument, whether before the full court, or a single judge in court, or a judge in chambers He apprehended it was for the full court. other point, that was another thing. The plainsimply this point reserved; the only thing that now remained was to get it set down for argument. There was no occasion for a rule nisi and they had only to fix the day for argument The Attorney General argued the matter some further extent, but on his Lordship pressing himself as above, he applied to have the day fixed, and Monday was selected.

IN SUMMARY JURISDICTION. Buroke Mn. Justice Russell.

Tong KWAN V. GEORGE STAINFIELD. Mr. Mossop appeared for the plaintiff, who trades under the name of Socy Shing as a compradore at No. 53, Central Market, and stated that the claim was a simple one for goods sold and delivered. His client had been in the habit of supplying the defendant with provisions, and the amount claimed was due, the same having been applied for on various occasions. A gentleman named Goldring appeared for the defence, informing his Lordship that he was the manager of the defendant's house, the Hotel de I'Univers, and he said there was nothing due to the plaintiff. Mr. Mossop objected to Mr. Goldring's appearing in the case unless he produced a written authority from the defendant. can you not pay the amount into court and let Mr. Goldring—No, I cannot: I have no money to pay into court. All the property is seize under a bill of sale.

His Lordship-If everything is seized, Mr. Mossop, what is the usewof proceeding for a jadgment. Mr. Mossop-The goods have been seized, but there ought to be something left after the bill of sale is satisfied. There may be something left, and I will take my chance. The plaintiff was then called to prove his claim. He said he had supplied provisions to defendant for some time, and his account had been settled up to the end of April. He had after that supplied goods for four days, the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th of May, to the extent of $103.19, which amount was still due. He had applied for payment several times to Mrs. Stainfield, and had told him not to be anxious about it, and that she would pay him by and bye. He produced his Chinese book, and a book written in English by his accountant, Lui Sui Lok, who entered the latter because Mr. Stainfield kept his own book. Mr. Goldring produced the defendant's compradore's book, showing that the account was closed on the 30th April, and the cash book showing the money paid up to that time. He said he could also prove that after that time money had been given to the cook to provide provisions for the hotel, as Mr. Stainfield discovered that there had been some swindling going on between the compradore and the cook. His Lordship asked him if he had any witness

Mr. Goldring said he could put a hotel boy into the box to prove that money was paid to the cook to get provisions with. That was all the His Lordship said that would be no use, and damage he did. His Lordship thought it was somewhat strange defendant had smashed the things after bringing down the inspector of unisances. If he had done t at first it would have been easier to understand. Defendant said he ought not to have done it. Sanitary Inspector J. R. Germain was called. and gave evidence to defendant complaining to him of the nuisance, and he corroborated defendant as to the unisance the place caused, and the condition things were in. He summoned the owner, who was fined 50 cents, and he ordered the rotten animal matter to be moved The plaintiff was not the man he summoned. Mr. G. Orley. Inspector of Markets, said Mr. Bamsey had spoken to him of this matter on the 11th November, and the next day he went down o the soy factory and saw what damage had been lone—the broken jars. &c. There were five or six jars broken, some of each of two kinds of jars that were in this compound. He could tell the size of the jars by the unbroken ones. He estimated that the soy jars contained about 50 cat ties each. The smaller jars were sand filters in which beans, &c., were steefed: In the estimatehe gave he took the plaintiff's own version of the size of the jars-70 catties. He saw the sov. and he thought it was only medium soy, in fact rather poor. He valued the soy, allowing 70 catties a jar, at seven, cents per catty, and he was sure he could buy better soy in the market for six cents. The best Japanese sov. only cost ten and allowing for the jars, beans, &c., he made altogether $15.79. He estimated the soy jars would contain six or seven gallons onch. weight of water was eight or ten pounds to the gallon. Witness valued what was destroyed from what he saw on the premises. Lan Akung, interpreter to the Gas Company said He recollected going to the soy premises with Mr. Bumsay. He correborated defendant's account of the condition of the place and the stuff there. He saw Mr. Bamsey smash three jars of soy, one of stinking water, and two other jars. Plaintiff was recalled and produced books showing the prices at which he had sold soy. which his Lordship said appeared to bear out the price he had put upon it, and the other items also appeared regular, and made up the amount

Mr. Deacon submitted that even allowing this his evidence greatly disputed the amoun of damage done, and he thought the ev dence he called was most deserving of credit Mr. Bamsey admitted he was wrong and that he should pay something, but he objected to pay more than was reasonable. His Lordship said there was no question this case that Mr. Bamsey was a wrong door, and in law everything was presumed against a wrong doer. He could not overlook the fact that an outrage was committed apon the plaintiff's property. It would have been better Mr Ramsey had made some offer to the plaintiff to pay him for the damage he had done. The plaintiff gave a clear account of the demage done, which was borne out by his books and his witness, while on Mr. Bamsey's side it was quite possible that in his race he did not really notice what damage he did. Inspector Orley did no go down to the place until a week after the damage had been done, and under all the circumstances he should give judgment for the plaintiff for the amount claimed, with costs.

People speak about their eyes being fatigued meaning that the retina, or seeing portion of the brain, is fatigued, but such is not the case, as the retina hardly over gets tired. The fatigue is in the inner and outer muscles attached to the eyeball and the muscle of accommodation. which surrounds the lens of the eye. When a near object is to be looked at, this muscle relaxes and allows the lens to thicken, increasing its refractive power. The inner and outer muscles to which I-refer are used in covering the eye on the object to be looked at the inner one being espacially used when a near object is to be looked at. It is in the three muscles mentioned that the futigue is felt. and relief is secured temporarily by closing the eves or gazing at far distant objects.
